Dear Colleagues,

Thank you for your interest in previous Business & Policy Program events at Japan Society. We would like to inform you about an upcoming program this month:

U.S.-Japan Relations: The 2016 Presidential Election & Beyond

PANEL DISCUSSION

Date: Friday, October 7Time: 9:00 am – 12:30 pm (Panel starts at 9:30 am)Panelists:

Kent Calder, Director, Reischauer Center for East Asian Studies, SAIS/Johns Hopkins University; former Special Advisor to the U.S. Ambassador to Japan

Takashi Imamura, Senior Vice President & General Manager, Marubeni America Corporation, Washington Office

Torkel Patterson, Member of the Board, Central Japan Railway Company; former Special Assistant to the President, former Senior Director Asia, Deputy Assistant Secretary for South Asia, U.S. Department of State

Moderator:

Barney Jopson, US Policy Correspondent, Financial Times

Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump are vying for the White House in one of the most tumultuous presidential elections in living memory. It leaves America at a crossroads, raising profound questions about the future of the Trans-Pacific Partnership trade deal, global investment, U.S. military commitments in Asia, and China's influence in the South China Sea. Clinton brings the foreign policy experience of a former secretary of state, while Trump's call to recast America's position in the world is resonating with many voters. The stakes for relations between Tokyo and Washington could not be higher. In this discussion, speakers debate what the presidential election will mean for U.S. ties with Japan and the rest of Asia.
