NYU Wagner Office of Alumni Relations in partnership with goods for good invite you to:

Disaster Response and Economic Development in Southern Africa

Recent devastating floods, drought, and subsequent famine in Malawi have affected over one million people and displaced thousands. Wagner alumna Melissa Kushner (MPA 2006), Executive Director of goods for good, a nonprofit organization that economically empowers communities in Malawi, will share insight on how the organization is making an impact locally. She will be joined by two other experts in the field, Shannon Howard of the World Food Programme and David Stevens of the World Policy Institute.

Join us for a discussion of how those invested in economic development can support long-term, sustainable aid in disaster situations around the world.

Panelists:

Melissa Kushner, Executive Director, goods for good

Shannon Howard, World Food Programme, External Relations Officer

David Stevens, World Policy Institute, Founding Director, Program for African Thought & Fellow

Moderator:

John Gershman, Clinical Professor of Public Service and Director of International Capstone Programs, NYU Wagner.
