THE Nation.

Dear Peter,

How responsible is the media for calling out a candidate's untruths? Has the media employed a double-standard in reporting on Hillary Clinton's candidacy? What role has gender played? How have different media shaped (and misshaped) the campaign? What lessons should we draw from media coverage of this election? What is the role of media in a democracy? Join the conversation with a panel of political and media analysts one week before the most important election of our lifetimes.
