Dear Reader,

Welcome to the April edition of the GRI Newsletter. This month, read about GRI's call for new governance body members, find out which languages the G4 Guidelines are now available in, and learn about the financial sector's growing awareness of the importance of uniformity and transparency in sustainability reporting.

Calling new members for two of GRI's governance bodies

GRI is seeking one new member for its Board of Directors and eleven new members for its Stakeholder Council – two of GRI's governance bodies that oversee its reporting guidance and activities. The open call for nominations for both the Board and SC runs for a two-month period from 10 April to 10 June 2014. Read more

G4 now available in 10 languages

Last December, GRI announced the publication of the first four G4 translations. Since then, the Guidelines have been made available in a further six languages. This article takes a look at the G4 translation process and covers some frequently asked questions. Read more
